A HORRIBLE TRAFFIC IN YOUNG MAIDENS

Carried on by a Villian Who Pretended to Secure Lucrative Situations for Them.

NEW YORK, December 24.-John de Leon, an astrologer, who kept a fort-une telling establishment in East Fourth street, wes arrested today and lodged in the Tombs to answer a charge of kidnspping. The man did a thriving business sending young girls to South and Central America to fill alleged lucrative positions, until he exposed himself to a reporter, who learned from him that he sent the girls away to lead lives of shame. The compisint upon which the indictment was found charges him with kidnapwas found charges him with stomap-ping Sarah Bowen, a young girl living in Astoria, L. I., and sending her to Panama, presumably for an evil pur-pose. Police Inspector Byrnes's de-tectives this morning located him in the Arlington House, this city, stier a long search, by means of a decoy let ter sent to his son. De Leon is charged with several crimes in Lancastor, Pa., one of them being that he played the part of a bridegroom in a mock marriage, for which there is an indictment against him.

CHICAGO, ILL., December 24 .- A special dispatch from Peoris, Ill., says Rosa Roberts, a young girl 20 years of age, claims to have been seized by a man on the public street yesterday afternoon, thrown into a buggy and conveyed five miles up the river, where she was thrown from the vehicle into the snow. She was cer-tainly found there and brought back to the city about midnight last night. Rosa tells a remarkable story to the effect that she was abducted from her home in Germany when 5 years old by a man named Bigs, brought to New York, adopted by a manuficturer named Roberts as one of his family, and five years ago, when Roberts died, was left $1000 in his will. She che came west with a daughter of Roberts, who had married L. W. Williams, now engaged in the boot and shoe business in this city, and lived with Williams until about a year ago. She claims that in the man who seized her on the street yesterday she recognized the one who abducted her from Germany fifteen years ago, and that the horror of seeing him deprived her of consciousness. Rosa believes that her parents are wealthy people in Germany, and that the object of Blus was to put her out of the way in order to keep her from securing her rights, and that her long unconscious spell made him believe that his object was accomplished. She is subject to fainting spells, which sometimes flast for

Safe Blowers in Town.

CLEVELAND, O., December 24 .- The five safe blowers who attempted to rob the tressury of Medina county, came to Cleveland early yesterday morning, and are evidently at work here. Last night five menentered the dry goods store of Hexter Bros., on Woo lland avenue. A hole was drilled in the door of the safe, and a heavy charge of giant powder was in-serted in the whole. Two valuable plush sacks and a piece of canton fiannel were then placed over the safe to deaden the noise of explosion. The fuse was lighted, and a loud exin the block and adjoining buildings followed. The two doors of the safe were blown from their hinges across e room, completely demolishing two chairs and knocking out the side doors of the office. The desk and furniture were more or less injured, and the office itself was thrown out of plumb. The robbers secured $250 and a large amount of valuable property.

There Certainly Must Have Been a

Milwausse, Wis., Dreember 24.— The trial of the Bay View rioters has been adjourned until Monday morn-ing at 11:30 o'clock. Mayor Wallber was on the stand this morning and testified in regard to the proclamation which he issued on May 3d and 5th. Judge Sloan, when he adjourned the court, told the attorneys for the defense that he would only allow them to call six witnesses to prove that there was no riot at Bay View. The lawyers attempted to discuss the matter, but Judge Sloan stated that he considered six witnesses enough. So far at he was concerned, he said, a thousand witnesses could not make him believe that there was no riot at Bay View. He added, incidentially, that he deemed the firing by the militia perfectly justifiable.

A Cowardly Outrage.

NEW ORLEANS, December 24 .- A special from Koscinsko, Miss., to the Times-Democrat says: At midnight Wednesday night four or five armed n ask men went to the house of Jor don Tesgue, a colored man living on don Tesgue, a colored man living on Mr. Do'len's place, about four miles below town, and demanded an eltrance, claiming to have a search warrant. A son of Jordan's opened the door, and, on discovering the men marked and armed, made a quick exit through the back window, the marked men firing at him. They then killed Jordan and shot his wife several times, it is believed fatally. She was shot through the tongue and cannot speak, but signified that she knew who shot

Miss Trelington's Rody Becovered, RALEGR, N. C., December 24.-The body of Mi's Trelington, the deat mute young lady who suddenly disap-peared from this city with W. L. Bingham, and who was from the first sup-posed to have been murdered, was found today in the woods eight miles from Raleigh and one mile from Cary, a village on the North Carolina, Raleigh and Augusta railrosd. She had been shot through the head and her threat had been cut.

Trouble Resulting From a Kiss. PHILADELPHIA, PA., December 24.— When court opened this merning the District Attorney aunounced that the commonwealth had closed in case in the trial of Rev. Waldo Messaros for felonous assault on Mrs. Mary Col-ston. The defense then opened, and Mr. Shields, of counsel for Messaros, and Mr. Shields, of counsel for Messaros, addressed the jury. Heraid Messaros was the victim of conspiracy, and that witnesses would be placed on the stand who would testify that Mrs. Colston and her husband had told them that Mrs. Messaros would not be in the pulpit long; that they had plans and schemes to get him out. He plans and schemes to get him out. He bitt rly araigned Mrs. Cols os, and referring to the evential Mondar morning when Messacs had visited Mrs. Colston at her request her request plaining to the lady in her parlor his reseons for refusing a letter of withdrawal from the church, she had thrown her arms around him and screamed for her husband. The hus-band and others, whom counsel stated he would prove had been brought to the house for the purpose, then rushed into the parlor and overpowering the minister placed him under arrest. The first witness called was Mrs. John Dunley formarly Miss Nellis Macon. Dunisp, formerly Miss Nellie Macon, whom Mrs. Colston test fied had said that Messaros had kissed her previous to her marriage. Mrs. Dunlap ex-plained that the minister had kissed her at her home when her father was dying and while she was crying.

MINISTER TO LIBERIA.

A Beath Sentence to the Recipient of the Appointment.

CHICAGO, ILL, December 24.—Chas. T. Armistead, the colored lawyer, who it is said stands so pear the Presidential appointment as Minister to Liberis, has received the following communication by way of advice from Ex-Gov. Headley of Ohio:

Ex-Gov. Headley of Ohio:

"You are a young man, and I do not think have any desire to die immediately. The appointment as Resident Minister to Liberia is, in my opinion, equivalent to a sentence of death. It proved so with Mr. Hopzier, the late Minister. Mr. Peter H. Clark of this city (Cincinnati) refused to take the office when he might have had it but for the reason, and very wisely he acted, quite wisely, I think. I do not believe there is quinine enough in Liberia to save your life if you go there. Yours your truly.

"GEORGE HOADLEY."

Such advice and krowledge coming

Such advice and knowledge; coming from one so able, has thrown a damp er sumswhat over Mr. Armistead's as pirations in that direction; but he says he is willing to make the trial, and if he finds his health failing it will be time enough to give up the appoint-Policy Players Jubilant, PITT SURG, PA., December 24.—The olicy players in this city were jub: lant yesterday, and the policy dealers were despondent, in consequence of the fact that the numbers 4, 11, 44, commonly known as the "coon row, came out. The result was that the backers of the game lost $6000 on this alone, and many of those who have been playing policy for years, with varying fortunes, have very hand-some Christmes gifts. The winnings rated from $2 to $100 or more. Several of the fortunate ones stated that the numbers came out yesterday for the first time in two years and nine months, but that somebody had played them every day since that time.

Enflocated by Coal Gas.

New York, December 24.-Capt. Peter Lefevre, superintendent of the Savannah Line of steamers at Pier No. 35, was found in his bed this morning at his residence at New Rochelle, suffocated by coal gas. Mrs. Lafevre was also found unconscious and is not expected to recover. The couple retired at 10 o'clock last night, and the weather being warm the doors of the heater were left open and the

AND ORIGINAL "SAMUEL OF POSEN,"

Publishes One of Bret Harte's Stories as His Own, That He Might Pose as a Literary Man.

New York, December 24.—The Star says that M. B. Curtis, who has for some years been known as an actor of more or less merit, and who has lately sepired to become a story writer, was "caught in a corner" last evening in his dressing room at the Fourteenth Street Theater by an indignant editor and an inquiring Star reporter. The editor was Mr. Harrison Grey Fiske, of the New York Marror. His indignation was occasioned by the following, which was published yesterday:

log, which was published yesterday:
A correspondent of broad and well found ed literary scrivity calls our attention to a story printed in the Christmas number of the New York Meror entitled, "The Major's Story," signed and perhaps contributed as original by M. B. Curtis, an actor. It teves a queer state of things. It is, with the exception of merely a desen words or so, a reprint of the "Man Frem Solene", by Mr. Bret Harte, published originally a few years as in the Num. Of course the Meror has been imposed upon, and whether Mr. Curtis has been imposed upon, and whether Mr. Curtis has been imposed upon also, or is the impostor binself, remains to be determined.
"I wrote to Mr. Curtis on November

"I wrote to Mr. Curtis on November 1th," said Mr. Fiske yesterds y after "asking him to contribute a short story or anecdote to the Christ mas number of the Mirror. On No. vember 14th the following freply was re e ved:

Harrison Gray Fiske, Esq., New York Mir-My Dean Fisher-Yours of the 11th Inst. to hand. I shail be glad to do as you request, and in a day or two will put my thinking map on and endeavor to give you something newsy and entertaining. Turly yours.

M. B. Cunys, V.

"A few days later a manuscript roll "A few days later a manuscript roll was left at my officer by a messenger. It was 'The Msjor's Story.' The article was not in his hand writing, but the signature was 'Cartis.' Tais I cat out and sent to the engraver for a fac simile reproduction. The autograph was appended to the printed article. I never read Bret Harte's 'Man from Solang.' I did not believe that Con-Solano.' I did not believe that Curtie, who has known me in a friendly way for years, would be guilty of a fraud, literary or otherwise. 'The fraud, literary or otherwise. 'The Major's Story' seemed to be rather c everer than one might naturally ex-pect from a men of Curile's intellect-tial calliber, but I did not suspect that he would impose upon me in this manner.

It did not take very much persuasion to get Mr. Fisks to accompany the reporter to the Fourteenth Street Theater, where Mr. Cart's is playing. The accused plagiarist was found in his dressing room in the bowels of the earth under the auditorium. He was standing in front of a looking glass deeply interest d in painting his eyebrows a brilliant orange. He did not look at all happy when Mr. Fiske explained the reason of the visit. His face was a deep carmine, but that was due more to a liberal coating of "grease paint" than from the blushes arising from detected guilt.

"Sit down here and I'll tell you all about it," begen Mr. Curtis, but be-fore he could get any further his wife appeared at the door and exclaimed excitedly:

'Now, Curty, don't tell (hem anything. They wanted a story and they thing. got a good one. They ought to be sat isfied."

Mrs. Curtis was pacified and left for her own dressing room. Then "M. B.," as the actor is called by his inti-

You see I did not think about writing this story until the time was nearly up, and then I was in a quan-dary. I wanted to do the right thing dary. I wanted to do the right thing to oblige Fiske, but I hadn't time to get up a story. So when I was think-ing it over and wondering what to do, who should I meet on Broadway but Col. J. F. Milliken, the playwright. I told the Colonel about my fix, and he said: 'Why, Curty, old boy, I'll write that story for you, and in three days he brought it to me. He said it was original and I paid him for it. He saked me to have it copied, as his writing was known at the Mirror. writing was known at the Mirror effice, and so I got my stage manager to write it out, and he signed my name

"Good copy of my s'gnature, too, wasn't it? You see I am bothered so much with autograph seekers and peo-ple who want passes. Well, that's all there is to it. I wou'dn't have had it happen for $100. But Millikin's a first rate fellow, and he didn't mean any harm, I know."

F. H. Varley, Mr. Curtis' advance agent and secretary, had already expisiced to the reporter that he (Var-ley) wrote the sricle from an old scrap book of Mr. Cartis'. He said that he nearly always did Cartis' lit-erary work because it was a good advertisement for that gentleman and Curtis had not time to do it himself. He said that &r. Curtis had not even read the story.

"I had two a'ories," said Mr. Var-"I had two stories," said Mr. Varley, "One which I wrote myself and this 'M. jor's Story.' I didn't tilink much of 'The Major's Story,' and was going to send in mine, which was much bet'er. Mr. Curtis decided for 'The hajor's Story,' however."

Col. J. F. Milliken has an effice at No. 866 Broadway. He is an "adapter" of French plays, and adapted Three Wices to One Husband, which was brought out at the Union Square Theater three years ago. He also adapted Nitouche for Lotta.

Nitouche for Lotta.
It was learned lest night from an old Chicago newspaper man that M B. Curtis three years sgo sgreed to buy a play from an Inter-Ocean reporter named C E Wright. When Wright asked for his money Curtis said he did not care for the play. Alterwerd, it is said, he used much of it in Spot Cash, but gave Wright no credit nor money.
